TO CONSIDER THE TARIFF DILEMMA.

Settle Anything and Leaves an Agreement Further Off Than Before-Adjourned to To-Day.

WASHINGTON, July 25 .- A few minutes after 3 o'clock yesterday after-noon, almost immediately after the senate adjourned, democratic senators went into caucus for the purpose of formulating a programme in regard to the disposal of the tariff bill For three hours the discussion continued, and at that time, without having reached any conclusion, an adjourn-ment was taken until to-day at the

Three members of the democratic party were conspicuous by their absence from this conference. These men were Senators Hill, Murphy and Irby, two of whom have been said to be ready to vote against the bill in certain emergencies, and one, Mr Hill, who has time and again declared his

In orified in the cloakroom by Mr Gorman and requested to be present. Mr. Hill frankly told the chairman of the caucus that inasmuch as he was opposed to the bill and would do all he could to defeat it so long as the party saw fit to keep the income tax in it, he did not believe he ought to participate in a conference that had for its object the passage of the meas-

Mr. Vilas did not indicate to the caucus just what he would do in this connection, but made a plea for the adminis-tration. saying that in view of the strong letter the president had writstrong letter the president had writ-ten there should be some sort of con-cession on the part of the senate, and he believed the concession should be, among other things, on the sugar schedule. Mr. Vilas' reference to the sugar schedule brought Mesars. Caffery and Blanchard to their fect, and they said that a concession of some sort was absolutely necessary, and they would be content if the sen-ate placed a "fiat" duty of 45 per cent. on all sugars, raw and refined, and gave the planters half the bounty for 894. This increase in the duty, they said, would compensate them to some extent for the loss of the bounty, which the committee promised them should be given, and which was decided upon by the former democratic

If the senate would not agree to this of sugar, the Louisiana senators must insist not only on the one-eighth of a cent differential, but the bounty that was promised them. He went further and warned the caucus that unless this was done he and his colleagues would vote against the bill.

This sugar talk had gone thus far when Mr. Smith, of New Jersey, took the froor and made a short but very effective speech, in which he notified the cancus that if the differential rate was disturbed—a rate which he said had been promised the Doctor will glady advise you. Free freathers with here will be promised the Doctor will glady advise you. Arbitration.

A great many people, aided by Eugene 7. Debs, are trying to impress the country that labor leaders are in favor of ompulsory arbitration of differences between employer and employe. Nothing is farther from the truth, be it right or wrong, and coming as it does, at this time, when confused by so many stirring cenes incident to the strike, is simply intended to deceive the public.

When the congressional committee appointed to investigate the Homestead strike in 1892 was in session at Pittsburg and succeeded, too—from the day on July 13, Mr. Weihe, president of the which he became President. Still. if Amalgamated association, was asked by there is a break in the lines of either Congressman Taylor "Did you ever offer to arbitrate this question?" His answer was "Not until after the trouble." Further on in the examination Congressman Byrnum asked him "Are you in favor of an arbitration bill by which such matters will be settled?" His answer contained the following: "In my opinion compulsory arbitration would not be a success in this country. If the arbitration was made compulsory, all parties should be made to exhibit their books. The workmen believe they understand the business better then anyone, and think they and the manufacturers should attend to their wn business." Mr. Boatner of the ommittee replied: "Yes, but you did not seem to want to agree until several ersons were killed." The Pullman strike took place in the ndst of an examination into the causes than by getting at the facts touching pulsory arbitration bills and schemes. These facts many people have forgotten, and because Debs thinks they have been forgotten, in the midst of his defeat he is crying out about arbitration, and endeavoring to leave the impression that somebody has refused to arbitrate. Mr Debs is just in the same position that Weihe was in the Homestead matter—there was no talk of arbitration until an attempt had been Democratic senators commit perjury when they swore that they had never purchased stock in the sugar trust? The direct charge has been made that they direct charge has been made that its proposed the investigation and is again taking testimony and is again taking testimony and it is publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in prevent ing the committee claiming to be afraid tha made to force the employer and a lot of people had been killed. general government would interfere to curtail his powers. His fool notions cost many a poor fellow his job and many a poor fellow his life. When he felt secure in power he would have been the last in power he would have been the last man to counsel arbitration. He even ordered out men who had just signed contracts with employers, which in effect burned the bridges of arbitration behind him. With compulsory arbitration what would there be of such feather heads as Debs! They would be out of a job at once, and this is a very plain reason why his present play about arbitration is the play of a hypocrite.

Mr. Debs' organization, so far as he is concerned, was for strike and force purposes. It could not have been for arbitration purposes, for all railway employes were organized before Debs started his order, and were in good shape for all arbitration purposes. The facts are that if compulsory arbitration were feasible all such men as Mr. Debs would soon be out of a job where his adary would be paid from the hard earnings of labor, and for this reason they are opposed to all arbitration meas

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, July 23, 1894. Grover's epistle to the free traders still holds its own as the most absorbing subject of conversation now before the Washington public. It was bad taste and an outrageous assumption of authority for Mr. Cleveland to have written sonator and is now in existence, and to that letter, and it only aggravated nee when he compelled Mr. Wilson to read it as a part of his speech on the floor of the house; but there is no denying that the letter has had at least partially the effect it was intended to have. It has made it certain that the house will never agree to the senate amendments to the tariff bill, because, as Senator Hill significantly remarked, such agreement would merely result in getting the bill vetoed. It has had another effect, however, which it is certain was neither expected nor intended by its writer. It has wrought a sufficient number of Democratic senators to control the senate, with the help of the solid Republican vote, up to publicly declaring that they would refuse to vote to accept any conference report that puts upon the free list any article upon which the senate amendments placed a That is just the way the thing stands at this writing. The House will not ac cept the Senate bill and the Senate will not accept the House bill. Now the only change that can take place must involve the surrender of either the House or the Senate. It can be surmised, without any great risk of making a mistake, that Mr. Cleveland will be able to prevent any surrender on the part of the House, and as the Democratic Senators who added the protec tion amendments to the bill did so because of pressure from the states they represent, it would seem that they might be counted upon to stand firm even if they were not strengthened by their ha tred of Mr. Cleveland, not only because of the insulting manner in which he re fers to them in his letter, but also because of the manner in which he has tried to boss his party in Congress—aye, which he became President. Still, if part of the senate. The Republicans are playing the part of onlookers at the coats-not, however, with our stillcontest, but they are by no means disin terested. On the contrary, they are so much interested that Senator Aldrich has asked all unpaired Republican senators to be on hand and to remain within call until the tariff is in some way disposed of. The Republicans wish to accomplish one of two things-prevent any tanff legislation, if that can be done; otherwise to aid in getting as many of the senate amendments as possible in the bill that finally gets through. Mr. Cleveland's alleged arguments in favor of the sugar trust and of the Whitney Nova Scotia coal syndicate, in which all the world knows the money of his closest personal and political friends is heavily invested, have greatly weakened his position and added to the which led to a reduction of wages chances for non-action on the tariff bill. Somebody, evidently, made the employes Everybody knows that Mr. Cleveland's believe they could do better by striking friends put their money into that coal syndicate solely because he assured wage reduction. When Mr. Debs had them that free coal was a certainty, and,

Take Mr. Debs, in the position he was in before the strike, as an example. At that time there would have been no use of suggesting arbitration to him. His idea was that of power to dictate his own terms to the railroads and the entire country. He did not calculate that the graph of the statement that certain parties who had been snubbed by certain senators by furnishing the evidence to make a case of perior jury against one Senator, in order that the whole business might be brought out in court. Origin of Many Items of Dress Which What is the origin of the narrow band of ribbon, which is around all of our hats-whether tall or silk hate, ·-wide-awake," hard-felt hat, hat, etc. To answer this question we must go back to early days, and we shall see that representations of very ancient hats show them to have been made of some soft material. In order to make the hat fit the cranium, a cord was fastened round it, so as to admit of the hat being tied upon the head. This ancient device—useful in its time—has survived up to the present day, although it is now quite useless, except in the modified way of indicating, by specially colored ribbon on a straw hat, embership in a certain club or society. In some hats, which are badly made, the original use of the band has been entirely altered, and it now serves to hide a join between the crown and the brim of the hat. Perhaps the strings of a Scotch cap show most plainly the now useless employment of a once use ful device.

Again, why are cockades and similar ornaments worn on the left side of a hat? The reason is simple but of very ancient date. These ornaments are descended from the larger ones, such as it is easy to trace the origin of these plumes, etc., which were also worn on for old prints of costumes will often the loft side of the hat. Look, for example, at the cavaller's plume.

Now, men who originally carried such ornaments in their hats also carried a sword by their side, which had often to be used in the right hand; a large projection on the right side of the hat would have interfered with a free use of the sword-hence the ornament was placed on the left of the hat, and this position is still adhered to, although it is no longer useful. The same reason also explains why hats are cocked, if cocked at all, toward the left side of the head.

What is the meaning of the nick of the collar in our coats and in many of our waistcoats? In rougher times than our own men were glad to turn up and side it is believed that it will be on the button the collars of both coat and waistcoat, as we do now with certain

Yet this nick is cut in our dress coats, and in many other coats and weistwhatever—owing to its position—not to mention the fact that in these coats no mention the fact that in these coats no leaves the second of the buttons are provided underneath the

We probably all know that the two now useless buttons at the back of our coats were once of real service when men rode on horseback, of necessity, much more often than we do. These buttons then served to fasten back the tails of the coat, so as to give free play own the center by unseen hooks. Nearly every coat we wear has either one or more seams stitched—quite unclessiy—round the alseves a few inches from the wrist. Some have a piece of braid instead of an imitation seam

This item of dress is a survival of the times when men habitually turned back and buttoned the cuffs of a coat slove Many of the coats so used were made of very expensive material, and then the turning buck of the cuff was of some use. Nowadays, with one or two exceptions, there remains only the useless ghost of a once useful detail of dress Top boots: why the turned-down up per part stained brown? These riding boots were originally made to comabove and protect the knee, and the upper part was loosely turned down for se, and as the inside of the boot was of unblacked leather, so it looked brown. But the modern top boot serves no such useful purpose, for its turned-down part is a fixture—and use ess. But we see its orign.

Numerous other instances might be noted or now useless items of dress which were once useful. In many cases real purpose of curious items of our every-day clothing.—London Tit-Bits.

The Arrest of Two Women Caught Pedagogues Placed for the Coming in a Selcon Causes Talk.

Decatur Lodge of Good Templars there was some plain talk on the constitutional right of women to enter salcons and buy drinks, the same as men, if such is their desire. And all the talk grew out of the recent arrest of two lewd women who were caught coming out of salcons on Franklin street. D. L. Bunn delivered the principal speech. He stated that it was his belief that as long as salcons were licensed the same as any other place of business a woman had the same constitutional right to buy drinks over the bar that a man had, and provided that as he did not conduct herself in a disorderly way was no more amenable to the law than a man would be under similar circumstances. He also questioned the right of an officer to accept a cashbond as security for the appearance of a prisoner for trial as is frequently done, claiming that the fixing and approving of a bond comes solely within the province of a sitting magistrate. It appeared from the records that the women in question were neither drunk nor disorderly but were dressed in their best Sunday clothes and were not disturbing the peace in any manner. As a matter of principle, said Mr. Bunn, they should have been accorded all the rights

ENGLAND AND FRANCE.

Great Engineering Scheme Sanctioned by Sir Edward Reed.

Description of the Plan—What It Would Cost.

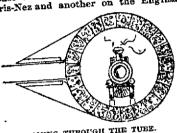

Another scheme to join England and France, says the New York World, is receiving serious consideration in those countries. It is proposed to build a louble tubular tunnel under the Straits of Dover. The old scheme of building a tunnel under the bed of the sea, which has been advocated by Sir Edward Watkins for years, never re-ceived the sanction of the British parliament, because many conservative

Englishmen believe such a construcvisit with relatives at Burlington, Iowa. tion would facilitate an invasion of > the straits. The latest plan has the support of Sir Edward Reed, who is a member of parliament and has been lord of the treasury and engineer in chief of the admiralty.

> The project consists in simply submerging, between a point of the French coast situated in the vicinity of Cape Gris-Nez and another on the English

It will be seen, then, that the mean slope of each tunnel would not much exceed 0.08 inch to the foot. There would, therefore, be found excellent conditions for traction. The tube would be of steel plate, with double walls, and the intervening space would be reinforced by I beams filled in with concrete. The liminary dredging, since it will be possible to give the piers the height necessary to avoid the slight changes of level of the bottom and of assaring a free circulation of the marine currents beneath as well as above the tubes. It permits, besides, of so regulating the system that the upward thrust partially balances the weight of the trains in each section. The stresses to which the tube will be submitted by the fact of such passage will be diminished by so much, and, therefore, much better conditions of resistance will be obtained than in an ordinary bridge.

The Case Continued Until To-Day-A laim that the Telegrams in Evidence Were Not Sent by Debe or with His Knowledge.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The arguments on the admission of testimony in the contempt case against Mesers. Debs. Howard, Keliher and Rogers, of the American Railway union, were concluded to day, and Judges Grosscup and Woods decided that the sworn answer of the defendants was not conclusive, and that testimony was admissible. It was decided to continue the case to 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and that time the taking of testimony will begin.

The crowd at to-day's hearing was as large as that of the day before and contained many more women.

Attorney Erwin for the defense made a long argument during the morning, claiming that the defendants' answer to the bill of complaint was final and that no testimony should be admitted. Mr. Erwin further pleaded that the information in the bill was vague, incomplete and insufficient and was such as should not be even recognized by

Mr. Bancroft, attorney for the Santa Fe railroad, spoke in behalf of the government at the close of Mr. Erwin's remarks. His aim was to show that testimony was admissible, and he cited many decisions to uphold his position. He was in the midst of his argument at 13:40 o'clock, when court was declared adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Promptly at the appointed hour the proceedings were resumed. While Mr. neroft continued his citations, Mr. Howard went into an adjoining room, took off his coat and enjoyed the breeze from an open window whilst he smoked a Havanz cigar.

Mr. Howard seemed to be in a very good humor with himself and the world in general. When approached in regard to his hearing, that gentleman

"Well, somebody has got to go through with this, and it might as well be now as any time. We will simply save future trouble of this kind. We have a perfect right to organize (the general managers are organized themselves), and before we get through we will show them so. They can not do anything with us anyway We did not send these telegrams. They were all sent by Hogan. The reason that Debs' name was signed to them was that he holds a half-rate frank on the Western Union Telegraph Co. and by signing the telegrams in his sme it saved half the charges. Debs not ask us this, and we did not see fit them who did send the telegrams. They can keep us in jail if they want to, but the strike still holds, and will last until the managers give

Just at this time Mr Bancroft quit speaking and Mr Howard went back to the court room to hear Mr. Geeting who was just opening his argument Mr. Geeting, in his address, scored Mr. Pullman quite severely and laid to his record the bloodshed and destruction that in the bill of complaint is attribated to Debs. The attorney made all manner of fun of the charges and taid the government attorneys were grabbing at straws. He dispovered, he said, in the bill of complaint not even a single allegation to show that the offenses charged were committed within the jurisdiction of the court or even within the United said, the defendants would go so far as to claim that the judge had no jurisdiction when he signed the injunction, and it would be set aside on that

It was 4 o'clock when the arguments were concluded, and it took the judges just three minutes to decide on the question of the admissibility of testiiony, which is the only one they constdered.

"While the case has criminal characteristics," said Judge Woods, "it is until to-morrow. nevertheless a case in equity, and we conclusive I want to be out of the Washington, July 25.—Mr. Wilson city, however, and as the taking of chairman of the ways and means comtestimony will require, perhaps, two mittee, returned to Washington yestrinee weeks. The majority, however, Judge Grosscup said he must mean omorrow night week.

After numerous suggestions and nine to hasten the case. Judge Woods said he would commence the pairing of testimony to-morrow, but erved the right to still refer it if he found that it was going to take men time to conclude it.

The district attorney seemed to be armed at a postponement of the case, wying that the men would continue to "Now, if these people me trouble. would call off the strike," he said, "it

FIFTY-THIRD_CONGRESS.

(First Beeslou.)

BENATE. WASHINGTON, July 24 .- The most entertaining and remarkable feature in the great national performance on the floor of the senate was the part played in it to-day by Senator Hill, as the defender of President Cleveland, against the assaults of democratic senators in connection with the president's now famous letter to Mr. Wilson, the chairman of the house conferees on the tariff bill. Mr. Hill took the ground that the letter, being unofficial, was no violation of the constitution; that was no attack upon the senate, or upon any senator, but that it was an honest effort to carry out the policy and theories of the democratic party, and to advance the interests of the people. As to its being an unwar-ranted attempt to interiere with pending legislation, Mr. Hill asserted that the blame lay with those senators who, instead of acting on their own judg ment and responsibility, "badgered the president to give them his views upon the compromise bill which they had prepared. "Do as I do," he said

He wound up a two hours' speec (bristling all over with the spills and spurs of his sarcasm) by comparing the enatorial conspiracy against President Cleveland to that which compassed the assassination of Julius Cmsar. In this historical parallel Sen-ator Gorman stood for the "lean and hungry Cassius"-of whom Casar said. 'He thinks too much. Such men are dangerous " -- Senator Jones 'honest Brutus," Cassia:" the "envious to them-"keep away from the White

ator Voorhees for Trebonius, "the distinguished senator from Tennessee." Mr. Harris, for Cinna. He carried out the parallel by declaring that these senators made the same plea which the conspirators of old made, "not that they loved Casar less, but that they loved Rome more;" not that they loved Cleveland less, but that they loved their party and the country more.

Mr. Hill was followed by Senator Caffrey, who submitted a motion looking to the restoration in the sugar chedule of a bounty for 1894. In a short speech (which, however, was not concluded) he accused the democratic nanagers of bad faith in striking out the sugar bounty, and declared explicitly for himself and his colleague (Mr. Blanchard) that they would not vote for the tariff bill if it put sugar on the free list.

Wrthout any action, and in order to have time for a democratic caucus, the senate, at 3:05 p. m., adjourned.

The committee on rules gave to-day's session to the committee on public lands, and in two and a half hours Mr. McRae, chairman, succeeded in having passed fourteen bills reported from his committee. Two of these were of particular importance—one providing for a settlement of the claims by and against the state of Arkansas and the United States, and the other providing for the separation of the mineral lands in the Nothern Pacific grant in Idaho and Montana and granting patents to the settlers thereon.

The bill which came over from Saturday and yesterday as unfinished business was passed, directing the re- sisting of fifty-four person , professors employment as fast as vacancies occur of the railway postal clerks who were lischarged between March 15 and May

An hour of the session was spent in in unavailing effort so consider the bill directing the payment to West Virginia of the amount of the direct tax collected from it irrespective of claims by the federal government against the state

Dated June 25, 1894. THE Rev. Benjamin Knepper, a Reformed minister of Gladdens, Pa., although 78 years of age, makes a journey of six miles on foot twice a week to preach to a country congregation. He was ordained fifty years ago, and says that he has baptized 2,215 persons, married 545 couples and preached 715 funeral sermons.

The Discovery Saved his Life. The Discovery Saved he Life.

Mr. G. Gaillouette, Druggist, Beaversville. Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Have ing Dr. King's new Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better; and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We don't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at King & Hubbard's drug store.
